THE 誉苑 Commodore

Inspired By An Icon Of History

A proud legacy.

The Commodore is located in Canberra, which was an important naval enclave within the former Sembawang Naval Base. It was named Canberra after a visiting Australian warship in 1937.

Its most celebrated historical landmark is the Former Admiralty House, a grand four-hectare estate, which today still stands proud as a witness to Canberra's glorious colonial past. Its first resident was the topmost naval officer in Singapore at that time – the Commodore Superintendent of the Royal Navy Dockyard.
